It Passes the Tucker Bill by a Party Vote,

And Rejects All Safeguards for the Ballot.

New Silver Compromise Measure Presented.

Agreed to-Scnator Dolph's Query Concerning Chinese Registration Yesterday's Debates.

By Telegraph to The Times. WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(By the Associated Press.) The fact that voting on the Tucker bill to repeal the Federal election laws was to come up this afternoon drew full galleries in the House today.

The bill, with amendments by Representatives Fitch, Lacey and Burrows, was read at 1 p.m. The Burrows amendment, seeking to except from repeal those laws providing for a free registry of the votes of citizens, irrespective of color or previous condition, providing for the punishment of those interfering with registration or voting, and giving the United States judges liction, was defeated on strict party lines, by a vote of 100 to 198. The vote demonstrated the fact that the Democrats had nine more than, a

The vote then recurred on Representative Lacey's amendment, provid-ing for the punishment of crimes against the ballot in the election of Congressmen and delegates. Mr. Lacey demanded the yeas and nays, claim-ing that the defeat of his amendment would give bribery and ballot-box stuffing free rein in delegate elections in the Territories. The amendment was

Senator Squire of the State of Washington introduced an amendment to the silver bill in the Senate, embracing about everything demanded on both sides of the question.

It provides that the owner of bullion, the product of mines or refineries of the United States, may deposit it at mint in an amount not less than any mint in an amount not less than a silve in value, to be made into standard dollars of the present weight. There is only to be paid to the person depositing the bullion such a number of dollars as will equal the commercial value of silver bullion on the day of the difference between the mercial value and the mint value to be retained by the government as seigniorage.

Deposits of bullion for coinage are not to exceed $2,000,000 per month, and when the number of silver dolars office.

The National Banking Association shall be entitled to receive Association shall be entitled to receive circulating notes to the par value of the bonds on deposit, provided the aggregate of such notes for which any association is liable shall not exceed the central stock and in the capital stock paid in.

The amendment is, in fact, a new bill, striking out all of the old bill after the enacting clause. It is under-stood that Senators Teller, Allison, Sherman and others say it is the best compromise yet suggested.

Senators of all shades of opinion now agree that the night session is an experiment necessary to bring the Sen-ate to an agreement on the financial question. Opinions differ much as to the probable length of a continuous session, and as to what result it will lead. The silver men are counting upon its continuing for forty-eight hours, and are making plans accord-

After the adjournment motion is voted down, someone of the silver advocates will take the floor, and speak until relieved by some other Senator of like views. The leaders on the silver side say that as far as they can control their forces, they will insist that the majority shall maintain a quorum. It is evident the repeal men will have majority shall maintain a quorum. It is evident the repeal men will have to continuously be present in quite large numbers to prevent adjournment. The majority of the Senators admit that a compromise is the most probable result of the night session experiment. The silver men claim at least eight Senators in the affirmative list who are desirous of securing a compression.

Senator Dolph started to speak in favor of its adoption, but Senator Sherman sug-gested that the matter be discussed in executive session, and the Senate went into executive session.

When the doors opened Senator Hill of New York presented a petition by 15,000 merchants of New York, asking unconditional repeal of the Sherman law. The repeal bill was then taken up.

Senator McPherson of New York

He read extensively from the reports of the International Monetary Conference of 1867, to show the part taken by Senator Sherman, who, he said, had never been given proper credit for his efficient work in aid of the establish-ment of a single gold standard. To that conference the United States sent Samuel Ruggles as its representative, but Senator Sherman was in Paris at the time, unauthorized, and he was introduced to the conference as chairman of the Finance Committee of the United States Senate. That was the only opportunity the United States ever had to secure an international bimetallic agreement, but it was rejected, and Senator Sherman was more responsible for its rejection than any other man. The House bill repealing the Federal election laws, which passed the House today, was laid before the Senate, and ary Committee, who was in the chair at the time, was about to refer it to that that the bill go to the Committee on Privileges and Elections. Pending de-termination as to its reference, the bill was laid on the table. After a short executive session, the Senate adjourned Representative McRae called up the bill which passed both Houses in the last Congress for relief of settlers on timber and stone lands under the act (1878, and it passed.

The Senate bill to extend the time or the payment of homesteaders in certain lands under the act of 1891, was taken up, and, after some explanation by Messrs. Flynn of Oklahoma and Simpson of Kansas, it passed. Representative McRae's bill regulating the sale of timber on forest reservations, and providing for the protection on such reservations, called up and considered in committee of the whole. The reservations in-clude over 17,500,000 acres, among others the following: Alaska, Afognak forest and fish culture reservation; Arizona, Grand Canyon forest reserve, 1,851,520 acres; California, San Gabriel timber land reserve, 555,520 acres; Sherra Forest reserve, 737,790 acres; Tra Buca Canyon forest reserve, 44,920 acres; Oregon, Bull Run timber land reserve, 142,080 acres; Cascade Range reserve, 4,48 forest reserve, 18,560 acres; Ashland ton, Pacific forest reserve, 967,680

Mr. McRae explained that the purests, secure a water-flow and give the department authority to sell, for legiti-mate purposes, such timber as can be spared. The bill aroused the opposition of the Western members, and 1 o'clock arrived without action.

The order bringing the Tucker bill to a vote, and its pending amendments, withdrew his amendment, and a vote was taken on the final passage of the bill, which resulted—yeas, 200; nays, 101—a strict party vote. When the Speaker announced the vote, the Demoerats broke into cheers, and, at 2:45 o'clock, the House adjourned.

A Rio de Janeiro Fort Surrenders-The Austrian Ministry and Free Suffrage

By Telegraph to The Times DUBLIN, Oct. 10 .- (By Cable and As sociated Press.) It was evident from the speech of John Redmond, leader of the Parnellite party, at their meeting here last night and from the reso lutions of the meeting that the Par-nellites have definitely broken with Gladstone, claiming that he has abandoned the Irish interests, and will here-after fight all English measures in the House of Commons.

The speech has caused a sensation here, and in political circles throughout Great Britain. Redmond said the Irish cause is at present menaced by leadly peril, which was the inevitable result of the Nationalists' surrender to the English. Parnell's prediction has been fully justified. There was no use deceiving the Irish people into the be llef that the British people who had taken up home rule, acted from any other motive than necessity, and only when they realized that British inter ests were imperiled.

The Liberals had hung up home rule for the entire year, until 1894, at least, and intended to proceed to the consider-ation of English reforms without hav-ing settled with Ireland. Thus a large and home rule would disappear for a generation.

Furthermore, what could Gladston offer; last session's bill was dead and the next one would be a further com-promise. Redmond criticised the course of Dillon and O'Brien, whose names were greeted with groans and hisses. He added that, at the coming session, he and his followers would decline to follow the government to a division of English questions. This statement was greeted by prolonged cheering.

The Parnellites then passed resolu-tions that the refusal of the government to consider at the autumn session a measure to reinstate evicted Irish political prisoners, and Gladstone's failure at Edinburgh recently to define his intentions in regard to the Irish question, indicated the policy which he in-tended to follow with regard to home rule. All this necessitated immediate action upon the part of the Irish party and the reorganization of that party throughout the country should be one of the first steps taken.

HOW IT LOOKS ABROAD.

VIENNA, Oct. 10.—(By Cable and Associated Press.) Minister Steinbach, referring to the financial situation to-day in the Reichsrath, said that the Austrian securities which were flowing back consisted chiefly of silver rentes. Foreign countries were now frightened at the very name of silver, therefore Austria adhered to the view existing in connection with that metal. The Finance Minister predicted that in the course of a few years, Austria would possess the whole amount of gold she required, while the United states would be passing through an unprecedented crisis. Austria, he added, was free from difficulties, and currency must not be restricted or inflated. America, he said, showed to what inflation led.

Just here an exciting episode occurred, which stirred the dignity of the convention somewhat. The startling announcement was made, "There's a man at the door. Can he come in?" The report on credentials was the presented, and will be published whe presented, and will be published when completed.

The first paper of the afternon, upon "The Santa Barbara Cottage Hospital," was read by the hospital's president, Mrs. Mary A. Ashley. Mrs. Ashley is, perhaps, the most elderly woman participating prominently in the parliament, and her benevojent face, framed in by white curls, rendered her a winning presence as she occupied the pulpit platform. Her paper was rich in excellent detail of the origin, progress and present state of the Cottage Hospital, which has been so perseveringly carried forward to its now assured success. One of her most telling points was the statement that in a single day, in order to replenish an exhausted was the statement that in a single day, in order to replenish an exhausted treasury and carry on this noble work, the sum of $16,000 was raised for the enterprise, solely by women. The building has already rost $24,742.91, and is out of day. out of debt.

enterprise, solety, by women. The building has already tost $24,742.91, and is out of debt.

The next paper was presented by Mrs. E. J. Davis of Riverside, upon the subject of "The Mariam Emerson School of Health for Women." Mrs. Davis is president of the W.C.T.U. of Riverside; a young woman of force of character and pleasing speech. She handled her subject ably, and presented numerous conclusive reasons why women, and especially young women, should be educated in such a school and in such lines.

A brief and spirited discussion followed, the burden of which seemed to be that there is no subject which can engross the attention of the women of the parliament which is more deserving of deep thought than the subject of health. The enterprise of such a school was warmly commended. The concluding address was upon "Necessary Reform in Public Schools," by Mrs. Georgia A. Matfield of San Diego. Mrs. Matfield is a member of the San Diego Board of Education, and of the examining board, and her apearance was the signal for a welcome. She has an individual charm of manner, cf tone, of thought, that would win her a way anywhere. Her words were alive with negnetism, and every point in this spirited paper was admirably taken. An almost continuous murmur of applause marked the sympathy of her hearers throughout the entire address. She stated decisively that the first logical step in permanently raising the standard of the public schools must be the eradication of the causes of their inferiority; and to begin at the root of the evil which permeates the whole system of our schools, we must consider boards of education. If the plan of organization of these bodies is wise, sound administration is comparatively easy. If it is unwise, the floodgates of wrong-doing are wide open, and good, healthful, life-giving school work is impossible. The question of few or many members on the school board must be considered. One of the most notable educators who attended the National Council of Education, recommends "small boards of education, with long terms of service, subject to no party in politics or religion."

There is a distinct movement in this

There is a distinct movement in this country toward the elevation of the standard of admission to the profes-sion of teaching; and perhaps no more sion of teaching; and perhaps no more flagrant evils exist in our public school system than in the manner in which teachers are selected. What wonder that character gets gnarled, twisted and distorted when, in the lantwisted and distorted when, in the lan-guage of a popular educator, "every Tom, Dick and Harry determine who shall enter the doors of our school houses and work with immortal souls?" Boards of education accept souls?" Boards of education accept without question, certificates and di-plomas as evidence of ability to do the work, and in many cases get the poorest results from teachers whose papers show highest the work, and in many cases get the poorest results from teachers whose papers show highest scholarship.

Another much-needed reform is shortening and enriching the grammar-school course.

The high school is the culmination of the common school system. If a curriculum is laid down and all who would enter are compelled to take it, regardless of taste, time or physical ability, many will be 'kept out of school, driven out, or, if allowed to remain in, carled as a dead weight.

The most difficult problem in public school administration is how to educate children in great masses, and at the same time afford adequate opportunity for individual development. To work toward this end, promotions should be more frequent, and the guiding principle should be the greatest good of the pupil.

The kindergarten system was warmly indorsed. This shoull be incorporated in the school system, and maintained at public expense. It may be truly said that "appreciation of child nature has helped to broaden humanity and make political freedom possible." The end of education is to fit man for completeness of life, to train all his faculties, to call all his endowments into play, to make him symmetrical and whole in body and soul; and all methered. completeness of life, to train all his faculties, to call all his endowments into play, to make him symmetrical and whole in body and soul; and all methods which tend to develop a robust body, a clean soul, a healthy brain and a noble character, must command the approval of every parent in the land. Discussion upon this paper was opened by Mrs. Margaret Hughes of the Los Angeles Board of Education. She heartily indorsed every word just spoken, and believed the good education to be the education which fits the man or woman for a life of usefulness. The discussion was continued by Mmes. Craig. Conger. Saxton, Rowiey, Burkes, Nettleton, Varal, Austin, Elderkin, Gibson, Blackmari, Davis, Miss Harriman and Dr. Reed and a number of others. It was maintained with great spirit, and the thoughts were the brightest and best of earnest women. The question box was then opened by Dr. Reed, and a large number of questions read and answered.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10, 1893.
The local markets manifest some indications of an improvement in the general trade.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Speculation on the Stock Exchange was characterized by increased activity, and transactions were in heavier volume than for a week past, but there was nothing healthy in the tone of the market, and the movement of prices was not concerted. The close was decidedly heavy, prices, compared with yesterday's finals, being at a decline in activity, the list ranging from ½ to 3½ per cent.

AH HIM'S DEPARTURE.

He Was Hurriedly Taken North Yesterday.

His Departure Kept a Secret Until the Last Moment-He Was on the Point of Asking for a Stay of Proceedings.

Ther was a great stir in Chinatown Ther was a great stir in Chinatown yesterday afternoon, when it became known that Charley Ah Him, the notorious highbinder, recently sentenced to deportation by Judge Ross, had been furriedly taken from the County Jail and transported to San Francisco. Charley's faction feared that some sort and transported to San Francisco. Charley's faction feared that some sort of a job was in progress, and Ah Him, before he left, the jail, expressed his fear to a friend that he was being "shanghajed."

It was reported that Deputy Sheriff William Hammil had taken the prisoner from the jail within an hour's notice. This was substantiated later, the only error being in connecting Mr. Hammil, who is deputy county clerk in Judge McKinley's court, with the Sheriff's effice, which has nothing to do with transporting United States prisoners. Mr. Hammil was probably sworn in by Marshall Gard for the purpose, but the three regular deputy marshals, who were in the office in the Federal building all yesterday afternoon, were decidedly "mum". on the matter, and would not say a word.

It is now definitely known that Charley Ah Him's case was directly appealed to the United States Supreme Court, and that it was intended that such proceedings should be inaugurated, pending the appeal, as would allow the celestial to remain in Los Angeles, instead of being taken to San Francisco, so that he could settle up his business affairs before going back to China. The local part of this scheme, however, was nipped in the bud by his forced departure, on the afternoon train yesterday.... There are eighteen other Chinamen in the County Jail awaiting deportation, but not one of them accompanied Mr. Hammil and Charley Ah Him on their hurried departure. There is no doubt the notorious chief of the Hop Sing Tong society was very much frightened at his summary departure, for as soon as he became aware of what was going on, he telephoned to his attorneys, who arranged it that a detective went north on the same train. This officer will watch Charley Ah Him during the entire journey, and whatever happens to him will be telegraphed to the Six Companies at San Francisco. charley An elim during the entire jour-ney, and whatever happens to him will be telegraphed to the Six Companies at San Francisco.

Further developments in this case are expected today.

The man had claimed Southern California as his home. It was found that the man was from North Pasadena.

The Irrigation Congress.

The Irrigation Congress opened yesterday auspiciously, with delegates in attendance from all parts of the coungeles has seldom had the pleasure of welcoming so exceptionally intelligent a body of men. Great hopes are justly entertained of the benefits which will accrue to the irrigated regions from the deliberations of these gentlemen. There are many important problems to be solved in relation to irrigation, such as the proper amount of water to use under various conditions, how often to irrigate, and the relative qualities of products grown with or without irri-These are pracical questions, regarding which there is a great difrence of opinion among practical men. Besides this, there are questions of ownership of water, of irrigation laws and of irrigation securities. Col. Hinton, who is devoting much of his attention to the matter of irrigation securities, says that, while there is no regular market for such securities at this moment, there is a great interest in the bonds on the part of investors, and several large loans have recently been made. The sale of irrigation bonds has been retarded by uncertainty in regard to the constitutionality of the Wright system. There is a case pending before the Supreme Court, involving this question. Should the court decide fa-vorably, there will be no trouble about placing bonds of all well-organized districts in this State. Should the decision be adverse, the next thing to do will be for the California Legislature to correct the points upon which the Supreme Court may decide adversely.

Besides these questions, there is the eat one of the irrigation of lands belonging to the government, which is one of the most important questions before the people of the United States today.

Judge Emery made a most interest ing opening address, and vividly portraved the great importance of the subject with which the congress deals.

We are pleased to know that Col. Hinton, who was formerly chief of the Department of Irrigation for the gov lands. It is to be hoped that he will succeed in impressing his views upon the congress. It may safely be said that there is no more important ques e the country today than that of the irrigation of these arid lands, so that homes may be provided for the hundreds of thousands of land-hungry people, and employment given to those so badly need it. As The Times frequently stated of late, it is difficult to imagine any more benef-icent, and at the same time profitable work which the government could undertake than the irrigation of th lands, and their sale to the people at a moderate advance upon cost of bringing water on them.

This question, which promises to be the most important one before the convention, cropped out early in the fight Mr. Rogers of San Bernardino introduced resolutions in the California delegation, which were unanimously adopted, protesting against the cession of the arid lands to the States and Territories. A year ago, when the Salt Lake congress passed resolutions favoring such cession, The Times called attention to the danger of such a course. Since then the eyes of the people have been opened. They have seen the rush to Oklahoma and the Cherokee Strip. They realize that all that remains of Uncle Sam's patrimony is in the arid region. remember the predictions of Macaulay and Carlyle, that the trouble of this country would begin when our public nds are exhausted.

This is a question which concerns the very existence of our country as a land of prosperity and happy independent homes. It is a question which concerns the welfare of a generation yet unborn. It is the question whether the millions of acres of lands now which represent the residue of the It now remains to be seen if prohibit American people's birthright shall be tion prohibits to any great degree.

The Irrigation Congress cannot leg islate on this matter, but its voice will It may strike the keynote upon which future legislation shall hinge. What will its decision be? If one may judge from the appearance of the men who compose this gathering, they will declare for a broad and liberal policy-for the reclamation of the arid lands the general government, for the people.

C. R. Rockwood of New York will read a paper in the Irrigation Congress entitled, "Some Mistakes in the Development of Irrigation Enterprises." Mr. Rockwood is the engineer of the Colorado River irrigation enterprise, which is one of the most remarkable tion projects ever undertaken in this or any other country. Some doubt was at first expressed as to the bona fide character of this enterprise, owing to misleading reports in regard to the intentions of the company, which were printed in some of the papers. It appears, however, that the company means business, and has money to start its project. Over $25,000 was expended last season in surveys, and we understand that Mr. Rockwood, who appears to be a very conservative man. will soon start again for the desert to recommence the work. The irrigation of the Colorado desert would indeed effect a marvelous change in that most arid and desolate region.

Representative Boutelle talked out Monday. He showed that the committees, both in the Senate and the House, were dominated by the ex-Confederates, and remarked upon the fact that not a Union soldier sits at the Cabinet table. Referring to the Federal election law, Mr. Boutelle made the following remark, which has the right ring, and was greeted with applause from the Republican side of the House: "I declare here now, on my own responsibility as a Representative, that no more mischievous doctrine, no more deadly blow at our institutions, at the of our nationality, at our country, can be dealt than the denial of the right of this imperial government to cross borders of a sovereign State.

Gov. Emery of Kansas Elected Permanen Chairman-An Able Address by Col John P. Irish of San

Owing, doubtless in great measure to ts magnificent climate, Los Angeles has become a favorite place for the olding of conventions and other as semblages. No more interesting gath ering has ever convened in the City of the Queen of the Angels than the In ternational Irrigation Congress, which met yesterday in the Grand Opera ouse. It is unique in being the first ongress of the kind ever held in the world. It is true that local congresse to consider the question of irrigation in various sections of the West have een held from time to time during the past few years, but this is the first gathering of such character that has lrawn delegates, not only from all parts of the United States, but from many foreign countries.

The present congress was called to neet in Los Angeles by the National Committee of the Transmississippi Congress Association, whose headquarters are at Salt Lake City. Los Angeles had been decided upon at a meeting of the Executive Committee, which met at Salt Lake City in September.

The committee which has been charged with making preparations for the coming congress has worked very hard, especially the Publication Committee, which has done a vast amount of good work. A regular bureau of publicity was established, and information regarding the congress sent broadcast over the world, in consequence of which an unprecedented amount of nterest has been aroused in the gathering. Even in foreign countries the have devoted considerable attention to the subject.

One of the first steps which taken at the meeting of the last congress in Ogden was to pass a resolution, requesting the Presi dent of the United States to issue an invitation to foreign governments of countries where irrigation is practiced, asking them to send delegates to the International Congress. In accordance with this request, the Secretary of State addressed a circular to the diplomatic officers of the United States abroad, calling attention to the importance of irrigation, and requesting the various governments to send delegates. The secretary also announces that the Department of the Interior would be represented at the congress by an officer specially detailed by the secretary of that department, for the purpose of giving such information as may be desired concerning the results obtained by surveys which have been carried on for several years under the auspices of the general government This request has been quite generally complied with, and delegates are here from France, Austria, Mexico and other poses to undertake the irrigation of the great province of Astrakhan, at a cost of $50,000,000.

The congress will remain in sessio five days, during which time papers will be read and discussions carried on upon the following subjects: Irrigation engineering, State laws on irrigation, national legislation on irrigation, Irrigation securities and finance, the relation of irrigation to agriculture and horticulture, irrigation machinery and appliances. Besides these, it is expected that the subjects for discussion at the congress will take a wide range, such as the danger of over-irrigation and scientific training, the correct type of domestic architecture for the warmer regions where irrigation is practiced and a number of other interesting probems connected with the subject of irrigation. One of the most important of hese will doubtless be the policy which the government should pursue in regard to the irrigated lands which it owns. At a meeting of the last congress at Ogden, a resolution was passe favoring the cession of the arid lands to the various States and Territories. An attempt will probably be made to pass a similar resolution in this congress, but strong opposition is likely to be developed on part of those who see great dangers in such a course, and favor the irrigation of these lands on a large scale by the government for the

It is certainly appropriate that this It is certainly appropriate that this congress should be held in Los Angeles, which is the metropolis of the leading irrigated section of the United States, in which the application of water to land has been brought to the greatest perfection, and the most striking results achieved. It is only necessary to point to the wonderful growth of Anaheim, and Pomona, and Pasadena, and Riverside, and Ontario, and Redlands, and a dozen other places, to show what has been accomplished by irrigation in Southern California within the past twenty years, and chiefly within the past ten. The desert has indeed been made to "blossom as the rose." The old, crude methods of irrigation have been vastly improved, and water is now utilized at a minimum of expense with a minimum of waste.

They may learn that seven counties of Central and Northern Callifornia in which irrigation is not practiced, increased their population from 41.131 in 1870, to 67,778 in 1890, a little over 50 per cent., while the seven counties of California in which irrigation is and were required for the support of a single Texas steer, now hundreds of them can be fattened. Our fruit products have been multiplied many titles of California in which irrigation is largely practiced, increased their population from 40,849 in 1870, to 5250,283 in 1890, or more than 600 per cent. They may learn that, during the past ten years, California has gained at the rate of 39 per cent. In population. During that period thirteen counties of the State have lost in population from 1 to 13 per cent., while fifteen, including the most important irrigated areas State at large. Many of the delegates will doubtless visit Riverside, which in 1871 was a barren, desolate plain, without house, fence, tree or even brush, and with a solitary sheep-herder to represent the population. The tract was assessed at 75 cents per acre, and the owner appeared before the county Board of Equalization to have his assessment reduced, claiming that it was higher than the actual cash value of the land. In the face of many obstacles, water was brought upon this arid plain from the Santa Ana River.

Last season Riverside shipped about 2500 carloads of oranges, worth, on an average, $500 per carload. Riverside is said to have a greater per wealth than any other city in the United States. The banks, during the TEMPORARY SECRETARY. Ex-Gov. Gosper nominated Fred L. Alles for temporary secretary, and the nomination was adopted unanimously.

Gov. Gosper said that the impression seemed to prevail that Arizona wanted all there was in sight. He wished to be understood that Mr. Alles was a Los Angeles man who had done a large share of the preliminary clerical work for the convention.

Secretary Alles made a brief speech, in which he called attention to some cornstalks, sixteen feet in length, at the right end of the stage, saying that they were an example of what irrigation could do.

COMMITTEE ON CREDENTIALS.

The next thing in order was the appointment of a committee on creden-tials, and it being agreed that each delegation should have the appoint-ment of a member of the committee, the appointments were made as fol

The appointment of a committee on credentials having been disposed of, the question of the appointment of other committees was discussed, but no conclusion was arrived at before the taking of the noon recess.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Report of the Committee on Credentials—Speech of the Permanent Chairman.

The convention was called to order shortly after 1:30 o'clock by Temporary Chairman Jers Millay. As soon as quiet had been secured, the chairman requested that all delegates speaking from the floor should announce their names, so as to assist the reporters and the chair.

Richard J. Hinton of the Committee on Credentials reported that it had been impossible as yet to prepare the report of the committee, and asked that further time be given. He said that it had been a physical impossibility to copy the long list of names.

On motion, the convention was accordingly adjourned till 2:30 o'clock. Promptly at the time named, the meeting was again called to order, and telegrams which had been received were read by the secretary. One was from some New Mexico delegates, stating that they would arrive on an even-

The list of delegates, as approved by the Committee on Credentials, was now read by Willard B. Allen of Illinois. The list was as follows: LIST OF DELEGATES.

MR. PATTERSON'S SPEECH.

Mr. Patterson said in part:

"I take pleasure in assuring you that the subject about to be discussed is a dear one to the 600 members of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. We know full well that upon irrigation depends almost the entire future of this State. We want to assure you that the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce are open to you.

"Arrangements for excursions to various places have been arranged so that you may see the result of irrigation; science, not chance. We are glad to have you with us to participate in our deliberations."

Water was brought utrageous a price. Water was brought outrageous a price. Water was brought on the land from the mountains, and trees and vines planted. And today: the census of 1890 gave the city of Pasadena a population of 4852. Including the suburbs, which extend in all directions, it now has a population of the part of that organization. lirections, it now has a population of nearly ten thousand. It has well-paved handsome business blocks arge and tasteful churches and school buildings, an imposing library, spacious operahouse, daily and weekly newspapers, and several banks.

They may visit a score of other beau-tiful settlements which have sprung up from arid plains as if by magic within the past ten years, all of which are striking evidences of what may be accomplished by bringing the life-giving fluid upon land which without water is comparatively worthless.

Addresses of Welcome-Election of Temporary Officers - Committees Appointed.

The delegates gradually filed into their seats in the Grand Operahouse, and at 10:30 o'clock the convention was called to order by W. E. Smythe, editor of the Irrigation Age. He said:

"In the absence of the distinguished chairman of the National Executive Committee, it devolves upon me to call this congress to order. This assembly is destined to have a place in the history of human progress. We meet not merely to extend our country's frontiers, but to widen the boundaries of civilization. The seed which we shall merely to extend our country's frontiers, but to widen the boundaries of civilization. The seed which we shall plant in the arid soil of the desert will bear the flower of industrial independence for millions of the freest men who ever trod the earth. (Applause.) It is given to this generation of Americans to build nobly and greatly for their country and their race. Irrigation is not merely a Western nor is it a national problem. These flags of Russia and of France, (Applause) of Ecuador and of Mexico, and the presence in this convention of their distinguished representatives, reminds us that irrigation is as ancient as the human race and as wide as the world. (Applause.) I congratulate you, gentlemen, upon the successful assembling of this representative body of men, and I am sure you will enter upon your labors in the spirit of those who hold the good of humanity above every private consideration. (Applause.)

This /motion was, after a moment's discussion, adopted. TEMPORARY OFFICERS. The election of a temporary chairman was now in order, and Gen. James M. Rice of the Arizona delegation rose and said:

"There are buried cities and ancient canals in Arizona, which for centuries past have been lost and forgotten. We come to you with a new life, and Arizona hopes to build upon the ruins of those cities. The highest civilization of ancient times was about the Pueblos and Casa Grandes. And there is where we hope to build up a new civilization. The honor that we ask is that of presenting to this congress a temporary chairman." The speaker then placed in nomination the name of Jerry Millay of Phoenix, Ariz.

Mr. Rioe of the California delegation then in a neat speech placed in nomination the name of Hon. J. R. MacDonald as that of the man who was the first to call together a convention of this sort.

After some delay in deciding as to the manner of voting it was decided to do so by a rising vote. This being announced it was found that Jerry Millay of Arizona has 73 votes, while J. R. MacDonald had 49.

A committee consisting of Messrs. Rice and Green was then appointed to escort the newly elected temporary chairman to the chair, which was done.

CHAIRMAN MILLAY'S SPEECH.

This act was followed by applause, after which Chairman Millay said:

"This has come upon me unsought until within the last fifteen minutes, I thank you for the honor you have put upon the Territory of Arizona. Your Governor has said he was proud of California. We of Arizona are also of California. A Bencherd, San Larrigation District; J. K. Bashor, Langer, San Langer, Ca. E. Bemis, Azu

As soon as the list of names had been read, the delegates from the various places were given an opportunity to make such corrections as were proper. After the corrections as were proper.

After the corrections had been made, there was some debate as to whether the convention should recognize proxies the convention should recognize proxies as delegates.

Mr. Green of California said that he was opposed to the recognition of the proxies. He came from the northern part of the State, and could have sent twenty had he wished.

Mr. McKeon of California said he believed that, in justice to the delegates from greater distances, the proxies should be granted recognition.

Mr. Smythe of Utah said that this same question had come before the Sait Lake convention, and it had been considered fairer to all concerned that such recognition should be given.

The report of the committee which had been presented was now adopted, without any action as to proxies being taken.

A few minutes' recess was then taken, which was occupied in further distribution of badges.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEES, The chair then announced that it would be im order to appoint a com-

The appointment of a committee on resolutions was the next thing in order.
A gentleman from Arizona moved to appoint the committee the same as the others had been.
A gentleman from the California delegation said that he believed the Californians knew as much or more about irrigation than some of the men from other States. He therefore moved that the various delegations be entitled to membership in the Committe on Resoiutions according to representation, or number of delegates in attendance.
He said he thought this thing had been run on courtesy about long

"We shall surely yote that motion

"We shall surely vote that motion down," said a Californian in another part of the room, and, the vote being taken, the gentleman's word proved

The Committee on Resolutions was then appointed, as follows:
Arizona, Dr. T. B. Comstock; Callfornia, Gov. L. A. Sheldon; Illinois, W. B. Allen; Kansas, Judge J. S. Emery; Montana, Otto Peterson; Nebraska, J. M. Lee; Nevada, Hon. George W. One of the California men said that ten was too many. The delegation could accept four only.

It was finally decided to give California four members on the committee. The Californians were given till this morning in which to select the men and were authorized to appoint them without further confirmation by the congress.

PERMANENT OFFICERS. The Committee on Permanent Organization then reported, recommending the selection of permanent officers as follows:

The report further recommended that a permanent executive committee be selected by the delegations and reported through their respective chairmen to the convention, the committee

The report was, on motion, adopted, and on another motion Messrs. Hinton committee to escort the permanent chairman to the platform.

The retiring temporary chairman,
Mr. Millay, introduced the newlyelected permanent chairman with appropriate remarks, and after hearty applause, Chairman Emery spoke as

even the word 'irrigation' is a new word to the American people.

"If you go on the other side of theis 'father of waters,' intelligent menate newspaper men, lawyers and doctors' newspaper men, lawyers and doctors' newspaper men, lawyers and doctors' will ask you what irrigation means. These questions imply on their part an almost utter ignorance of what the matter is that is now to be submitted to your deliberations. I know (and it is no new thing for me to say here tonight that civilization was born, or at least had its first development upon arid lands. It is no new thing to say that agriculture had its birth, its development upon arid lands. It is no new thing to say that the dense population which inhabits the world was fostered and developed and grew under the inspiration of—allow me to ise the words—watering the soll by artificial means. I allude to this, because in my own State, the question is often asked, 'Where are you going to get your water to irrigate the great West with? Why, there is not water enough to irrigate that country?

"I try to answer these questions the best I can: but on taking up The Irrigation Market, a young paper recently started, but very vigorous, though only in its fourth number—and by the way, I probably tell nothing new when I say it is edited by our friend, Col. Hinton. He says:

"There is today more water running to waste west of the 100th meridian than was ever in use for agriculture by irrigation within that Persian Empire whose soldiers once overwhelmed the civilization of the Mediterranean. More too, than supplied and supported Babylon and Assyria in their palmiest days. There is water "in sight" sufficient to supply from the surface flow alone, for the Irrigation of 75,000,000 acres. There is water enough in the streams and other natural sources of our arid empire to make fertile with proper storage facilities not less than 150,000,000 acres, all nearly or quite as fertile as the Valleyolopent, even in the sub-humid belt, the great plains region, that those great trunk tion is the question, "Where are you going to get wet water?"

"I traveled yesterday and the day before 1000 miles across arid and seminarid countries. I don't pretend to be a prophet, but I can dream, and I have freamt, and I have faith that my dream will prove a reality, that the boy is now born, and running up and down your streets, that will see this region from here to the 97th meridian blue and blossoming like the rose. (Applause.)

"I want to quote Mr. Vilas here. Mr. Vilas, you know, was Secretary of the Interior during Mr. Cleveland's first term. Mr. Vilas is upon record as expressing the opinion that the subject of irrigation, as it would be developed, would take hold of the headwaters of these rivers that pour into the Missouri, and from the Missouri into the Gulf, and turn some of these headwaters and have them used in irrigating this great plateau east of the Rocky Mountains. And Mr. Powell of the United States Geological Survey—who, I am very happy to know, is going to speak tomorrow—is upon record as saying that every acre reclaimed by irrigation from the Sources of the Missouri River will save another acre at its mouth in the tropics. (Applause.)

"I mention this, gentlemen, because the sources of the Missouri River will save another acre at its mouth in the tropics. (Applause.)

"I mention this, gentlemen, because you have got a big battle to fight. You are entering upon the discussion of an enterprise here today that is not going through the Washington government without a contest. The Eastern States are a part of the Union. They are a part of us. I love them. I respect them. But the idea of spending mosey upon the West, upon those arid plains between here and Albuquerque, and beyond, is something that is not apt to strike the thrifty Yankee as a good thing to do. (Laughter.) He is apt to think that that is too much like throwing away money. But, you convince him that there is money in it, and he becomes as vociferous in the applause of what is done as you Californians are in applauding what you have accomplished in this beautiful city. (Applause and laughter.)

"When I rode last night from San Bernardino down here, through a beautiful garden of orange groves and orchards, I felt as the Queen of Sheba must have felt when told of the glories of Solomon; I felt that the half of California had never been told to me. (Applause.)

"No, my friends; what you have done

"Governmen of the Congress: I are very sensible to the compliment to have paid me, and not to me alone, but also to the 'Sunfower State,' to Nobraska, to have paid me, and not to me alone, but also to the 'Sunfower State,' to Nobraska, to have paid me, and not to me alone, that I tove so well. (Applause.)

"No, my friends; what you have done here is a proof for us who go back to the 'Sunfower State,' to Nobraska, to have a said: 'What Europe is to Asia, what England in to the rest of Europe, what the United States are to comply the complement of the Atlantic States."

"This eminent authority has further said that the heat, and the bustle, and that the heat, and the bustle, and goes toward the setting of the sun; ow, who are now standing on the shores of the Pacific, are flow about the very center of this great pulse of the property center of the property center of the property center of the property center of the great pulse of the g

T would be very unwise to pay out money for advertising as we do and then disappoint our trade in the wares we have to offer. Better do away with all advertising and take the slow and easy method for doing business. All the big dry goods houses of this country are heavy advertisers. It must pay. This is the fitting time to offer some old advice 'explore the store." Upstairs and down you will see bustle and animation; cheerful salespeople and an abundance of new goods. Store comforts are important. Prices that go down to the littleness of nothing catch the eyes and rests the weary. The big Dress Goods Department is getting bigger and bigger in point of custom. So much here for a little. Prices reduced on little odd lots that are up to the highest notch for style. This is beneficial and creates larger trading. Dress goods is the busy part these cool October days. Velvets were never so good, colors never so rich, styles never so handsome and yet the prices are at the lowest. All colors in silk velvet, $1, $1.25, $1.50; blacks, $1, $1.25, $1.75, $2; velveteens, 50c, 60c, 75c, 90c, $1, $1.25. Most fashionable article for women's wear is velvet. There is a hovering around the broadcloth counter. Best items in the house for dresses and capes. We cut, fit and baste capes free for all who buy their material here. Broadcloths, $1, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2, $2.50, $3 a yard, black, white and all colors. What is dress goods talk without corset talk. The famous Worth Model in the Royal Worcester Corset will aid the dressmaker in making a more perfect fitting dress. The Royal Worcester is the best of all good corsets. and the Worth Model is the finest fitting in the Royal Worcester line. We talk cloaks, we advertise cloaks and we sell more cloaks than any two of the largest cloak houses in the city. Why? Confidence, one price, plain figures and you may return any article bought in this house if not perfectly satisfactory in every way. Confidence brings with it heavy sales. Largest assortment in the city. New goods are sold as new, old goods are sold as old. Again it is your confidence. We want in our big Cloak Department splendid salespeople to wait upon you. No importuning to buy. Goods rightfully represented. Best light. You are safe in every way in the big Cloak Department of the city.

"Trustworthy Goods." "Lowest Prices."

Every article or piece of goods in this store is thoroughly trustworthy in character, and all at prices unquestionably the lowest.

The records of the past year's work are such as to commend the institution to all of our citizens; and the officers and members are to be congratulated for the good they have done. Their service has been a benefit and blessing to hundreds of men during the past year, and the institution should receive the hearty support of our citizens, so as to enable it to further its plans for the benefit of the men of this community. Suitable resolutions were adopted on the death of Walter Graves, who, during his residence in Pasadema, took an active interest in the affairs of the association and contributed largely to its success through his personal efforts.

CAMP WILSON NOTES.

The weather at Camp Wilson seems to improve as autumn advances, and the guests who are enabled to stay through this season consider themselves remarkably fortunate. The few snapping cold days when they gather around the fire-place with its crackling logs, serve as a tonic as well as a gentle reminder of the homes they have left in the East, where such days are a little too frequent for the comfort of many. Mr. Hotaling, who went down Friday, came for the sake of experiencing a touch of cold weather, and was more than pleased, as it turned cold the night after his arrival. The case of the People vs. W. E. Miscall, on preliminary examination in Justice Crane's court for libel, terminated Tuesday by the justice holding the Santa Vnez editor to answer Those who heard the evidence think that a jury will acquit without leaving the box, but as the prosecution estab-lished a prima facie case the justice had no alternative but to find there was probable cause for believing Mr. Miscall guilty. The case is the outcome of an article published in the Argus reflecting rather severely on the administration of justice in Santa Ynez. One Currier, who was roasted in the article, took offense at it and had the editor arrested for criminal libel. Santa Ynez residents, who claim to have possession of the inside facts, say it is a scheme to get Mr. Miscall out of the control of the Argus, and put a member of the clique in his place. Mr. Currier, the man who swore to the complaint, recently went through insolvency, and formerly kept Hoke Station. Some one has enough interest in the case to hire a special counsel to prosecute.

Alexander Craw Says It is Surely Dying

Alexander Craw Says It is Surely Dying Out.

Alexander Craw, quarantine officer of the State Board of Horticulture, yesterday made an inspection of several orange-groves in the southern portion of this city, where the red scale is reported to be decreasing, and to a representative of The Times said that the article in this paper of the 3d inst., was a correct statement of the facts. When he read the article he was inclined to believe that it was only the natural demise of the scales after having left 35 per cent. of a younger generation to take their places. But an examination of the infected leaves, branches and fruit, soon satisfied him that something more than old age was responsible for the great mortality, for small and half-grown specimens were numbered among the dead. Specimens were noticed where the disease was in the incipient stages. This was indicated by a chocolate blotch or discoloration of the insect. Sometimes this would appear on the abdominal segments, and on others the body of the scale would have from one to four shrunken brown spots. When in an advanced stage of the disease, some of the specimens showed, under the microscope, unmistakable signs of a fungus growth. Whether this is an after-growth or the primary cause of the great death-rate, cannot be determined unless by cultural experiments with the fungus in new groves. In some specimens the ventral scale is covered with this dark fungus, and in others the body of the scale is attacked, and the fungus forces the shell up where the wind or the shaking of the branches removes it, leaving a white spot that indicates where the scale has been.

At no time since his first acquaintance with this scale, in 1877, has he noticed this condition, and he sincerely hopes that the dreaded red scale has that the found or the shaking of the branches removes it, leaving a white spot that indicates where the scale has been.

Los Angeles Confidence Man Heavily Fined—Those Prunes.

Virgil Wattell, the Los Angeles young man who was arcreted in this place Monday evening as a confidence man, was taken before Judge Barnes Tuesday morning. He confessed, and was fined $100 or 100 days in the County Jail. Of the $26 found on his person when he was arrested Wattell promptly plad $25 of fit toward his fine. He will be taken to Los Angeles this (Wednesday) morning. Wattell's method of working the dear public was to go from house to house, telling them he was out of work, or had a sick wife, and he would then produce a scoffpin from his tie, and say it was a very fine one, and he wished to get about $2 on it, and as soon as he could go to his sick wife he would come and redeem it. Of course the pin wasn't worth over 15 cents. He had a pretty good stock of cheap jewelry on his person when he was arrested. He played the same game several times on Monday before he was finally run in. Wattell says his mother is well off, but will not give her address in Los Angeles. There is too much time lost between heats. If the association could arrange to sandwich races in between heats the public would be pleased.

The track was fast yesterday, but it will be faster today, when the horses come out for the great pacing race.
Gossiper, Regina and Jennie June covered themselves with glory yesterday on the Santa Ana track.

Silkwood badges will flutter in the breeze today from the hands of hundreds of enthusiastic admirers.

Today's great pacing race was the talk of the town yesterday. All the horses, Silkwood, Our Dick and W. Wood, are in the pink of condition. It reems to be the general impression that Our Dick or Silkwood will be the winner. Wood has a great amount of speed, but 'It is feared he has not wind enough to win the race. Silkwood has the greatest race of his life ahead of him, and if he wins it he will surely prove himself to be not only a great and wonderful horse, but worthy of the admiration that is so freely given him.

Practical Education.

The address of President Keyes of Throop University, before the Young Men's Christian Association, was listened to by a large number of youngmen. The subject was "The Value of a Practical Education." The speaker defined education, and showed the distinction between knowledge and wisdom. The value of bodlly training in order to secure energy for the work of life was set forth. Manual training was a legitimate and essential part of a thorough education. It taught intensity of application, and above all, it taught sympathy with those who carned a livelihood by manual labor. Drawing was especially recommended as a practical training of the powers of observation. Practical studies were not those which simply dealt with business matters. Those studies were practical which enlarged the man. A thorough knowledge of the English language, and the ability to express one's ideas readily and convincingly was of a very high practical value. The lecture was an eloquent effort, and was received with prolonged applause. After it was finished those desiring to join the various evening classes of the association were enrolled. Through the neglect of Horticultural Officer Scott, the purple scale has gained a hold in this district, and has been allowed to spread all the way from Clearwater to Whittler, and is steadily increasing, and little or no effort has been made to stop its progress. This, if continued, will not only ruin the trees and fruit, but will prevent people from investigating and improving in this locality. We have been given to understand that, predacious parasites can be obtained only through the State Board of Horticulture, by whom they were colonized, owing to a lack of confidence in Mr. Scott. From this want of harmony between the State board and our commissioner, the fruit interests of our county, and particularly of this locality, are suffering. No doubt the State board had good cause for its action. In view of this lack of confidence, and the great expense to the county annually, it having cost about $12,000 to sustain the commissioner's office in 1892, and for which outlay there was no appreciable benefit, we ask that a change be made in the incumbency of the office, whereby the fruit-growers of the county can receive a benefit both from the investigations of the State board, and as a return for the taxes they are compelled to pay. We assert no claim, and have no desire to dictate to your honorable board the person whom you rhall select to fill the office of horticultural commissioner. We only ask that he be a man in whom fruit-growers may have confidence, and one with whom the State board will work harmoniously."

The petition was signed by twenty-five persons.

I expect to work in this convention if my life is spared, and I know, we shall be glad to come out here occasionally to take lessons from you gentlemen, you California farmers. I always like to have a man talk to me who can tell me something I didn't know before. We hope to get lots of those lessons before we go back. Then, we will call another convention in the city of Denver, or somewhere else, and you must come up there and we will keen agittating The Bar Association on ex-Judge Wilson's Death.

Final Order Made in the Cable Railroad Case.

John S. Park. Who Was Indicted by the Late Grand Jury, is Appointed by Judge Shaw to Examine the City Bank Books.

The various departments of the Superior Court were not overburdened with business yesterday, and notwith-standing the absence of two of the the four courts in session during the past few weeks have proven themselves fully able to handle all the cases on the calendars, and have some time to spare besides.

In the afternoon yesterday, a meeting of the Bar Association was called to take appropriate action on the untimely demise of ex-Judge T. K. Wilson, of demise of ex-Judge T. K. Wilson, of the firm of Lamme & Wilson, who died suddenly on Monday evening from the effects of a stroke of apoplexy. The following brief history of the life of the deceased, in the form of an obituary notice, was presented:

"Thomas Kingsbury Wilson was born in Bradford, Me., April 22, 1837. His carly life was in many respects the same as that of the average New En-glander. Early in 1860 he came to Cali-fornia and settled at Mokelumne Hill, calaveras county, where he taught school for a brief period of time. He afterward entered the law office of the late Judge Brockway, and, after a somewhat prolonged course of study, was admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of this State.

"Upon being elected District Attorney of Calaveras courty he served one term of Calaveras couny, he served one term, at the end of which he moved to San at the end of which he moved to San Francisco, forming a partnership with H. J. Tilden, which continued till 1879. In that year he was elected one of the superior judges of that county, drawing the one-year term. He was twice re-elected, and served upon the bench in San Francisco for ten years. In April of the year 1889 he resigned to accept a copartnership in this city, the firm being Brunson, Wilson & Lamme. This firm continued to exist until Mr. Brunson's retirement, two years ago. Since that time to the present, the firm of Wilson & Lamme has remained intact.

of Wilson & Lamme has remained intact.

"Judge Wilson's career in this city and elsewhere has won for him a high place in the respect of the masses. A widow and three children survive him. A brother and four sisters reside in Maine, while another brother, Charles E. Wilson, resides in San Francisco.

The following were appointed as a committee to prepare suitable resolutions on the part of the Bar Association: R. H. F. Variel, J. A. Anderson, Sr., S. O. Houghton, J. W. Shankland, Judges W. H. Clark and Van Dyke and A. M. Stephens.

It was also resolved that the members of the bar attend the funeral in a body, which will take place from the family residence at No. 953 South Broadway this afternoon at 2:30 felock.

A FINAL ORDER.

A FINAL ORDER.

minute order was made yesterday Judge Van Dyke, which has for its object the final winding up of the long-continued case of the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank vs. Pacific Rallway Com-pany. It was thought that certain minor complications might arise to de-lay the final consummation of the sale of the cable property, but the order re-ferred to settles the whole affair. In substance, the minutes of yesterday of the court show the following: "The Los Angeles Consolidated Electric Rail-way Company, now appearing and weobject the final winding up of the long of the court show the following: "The Los Angeles Consolidated Electric Railway Company, now appearing and presenting to the court proper certificates of purchase made by F. J. Thomas, commissioner for all the property described in the decree of foreclosure in the above entitled action, and praying for an order directing D. K. Trask, receiver, to deliver said property to said purchaser, and said receiver also appearing in court and no objection-being made, and now appearing to the court, it is ordered that said receiver, D. K. Trask, deliver to said purchaser all of the property now in his possession, which is described in said decree of foreclosure, and also all the net income therefrom since October 4, the day on which said property was sold to said Los Angeles Consolidated Electric Railway Company."

PARK APPOINTED COMMISSIONER. In the case of Miller vs. the City Bank, the following order was entered yesterday by Judge Shaw: "It appearing to the court that the decision of the case involves the taking of accounts and the examination of the books of the City Bank, it is ordered that John S. Park be, and he is, appointed a com-missioner, and as such he is ordered to examine the books of said bank and report to the court the facts shown therein in regard to and bearing upon the application, disposition and present condition of the funds received by said City Bank and claimed by the inter-venor, J. M. Rice, and he is ordered to make such report, fully itemized, within ten day from this date."

An Eloquent Address by Col. John P. Irish.

Chairman Emery of the congress called the evening session to order soon after 8 o'clock, and asked Gen. Eli H. Murray of San Diego to preside during the evening.

That gentleman was escorted to the platform, and after brief remarks he introduced Col. J. P. Irish, the speaker of the symmetry Col. Irish, said in part:

delegates, held to elect four additional delegates who had been granted to the State:

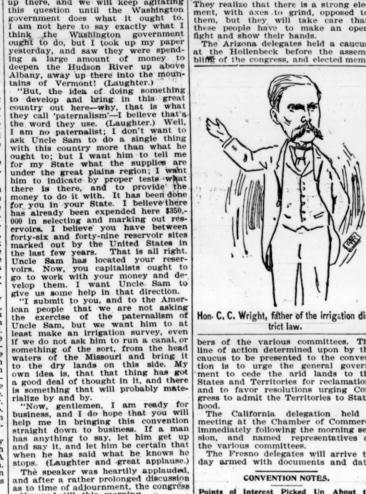

"Resolved, that the California members of the Committee on Resolutions be and are hereby instructed to present to the congress a resolution, protesting against the ceding by the general government to the several States and Territories the arid lands of the United States.

"Resolved, further, that they be instructed to present to the congress a resolution urging the Congress of the United States to develop said arid lands at the public expense by adequate irrigation systems, and to sell the same in tracts of not more than forty acres to actual settlers, to form homes for American citizens only."

There was some faint opposition, but after a full presentation of the merits of the case by Mr. Rogers, the resolutions were unanimously adopted.

The ball has thus been set a rolling, and from now on a quiet but determined fight will be made, both in and out of the convention. Every effort will be made by Californians to add delegates from other States to their ranks. They realize that there is a strong element, with axes to grind, opposed to them, but they will take care that these people have to make an open fight and show their hands.

The line of action determined upon by the caucus to be presented to the conven-tion is to urge the general govern-ment to cede the arid lands to the States and Territories for reclamation; and to favor resolutions urging Con-gress to admit the Territories to State-hood.

The California delegation held a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce immediately following the morning sestion, and named representatives on sion, and named representatives on the various committees. The Fresno delegates will arrive to-day armed with documents and data.

Points of Interest Picked Up About the Delegates.

Californians predominate in the con gress, as might reasonably be expected It was, therefore, well arranged that in their location they take the larger outward circle back of the parquette. The second largest delegation, from Arizona, occupies the right of the parquette. In the center are South Dakota, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska, Montana, Nevada, Colorado, Washington and Oregon, in the order named, beginning in front. The left parquette, in like manner is occupied by Tennessee, Utah, Wyoming and Idaho. The boxes on either side are hung with the national colors of the delegations to whom they are assigned—Russia and France to the right, with Austria and Hungary and the British colonies above; Ecuador and Mexico to the left. Back of Arizona sit the delegates from Illinois and New Mexico.

There are no more earnest and interested delegates in the congress than from Arizona. They excel California in zeal, because, while they have everything to gain from irrigation, they have many more difficulties to overcome, and the field of experiment is broader with them than with almost any other section.

Graybeards are not wanting among outward circle back of the parquette. platform, and after brief remarks he introduced Col. J. P. Irish, the speaker of the evening. Col. Irish said in part:

"We are fortunate in being the guests of this ancient city, which has rested under three different flags, and has acknowledged the dominion of three different nations, whose walls have echoed back the roar of conquest and which under the impulse of American enterprise has renewed its youth like the engle.

"While here if you go to the top of Mount Echo on that electric railway built by the genius and enterprise of one of our citizens, you will look down upon an enchanting scene. From Puente to Santa Monica there will be spread before you a landscape filled with opulence and beauty by irrigation, dotted with thousands of homes. All that charms you in Los Angeles came from that land. You will then realize that the rainbow beauties of this city like the charms of the rainbow which arches the sky were made from water and sunshine.

"What you see here, however, cannot be created everywhere in the arid region by irrigation, for the profits of that system are subtest to climatic contact.

thing to gain from irrigation, they have many more difficulties to overcome, and the field of experiment is broader with them than with almost any other section.

Graybeards are not wanting among the delegates, yet the predominance is of young men in the vigor of manhood; a determined, practical looking body.

Judge J. S. Emery, permanent chairman of the congress, is from Lawrence, Kan. He is one of the patriarchs, and a pioneer in his State when it won the title of Bleeding Kansas. He is earnest in his desire to learn of irrigation methods, and made a hit in his remarks on the floor, suggesting ten special members of the Committee on Resolutions from California because "the other delegates had a right to the benefit of their broader experience." In his address on taking the chair, too, he made a center-shot when he declared that the ambition to own a big farm was giving place to a struggle to see how small a farm would support a family, and how, well it could be farmed.

At the right of the platform there are some cornstalks brought in for the Chamber of Commerce display Tuesday, but transferred at once to the congress hall. They measure a full sixteen feet high, and the tallest man cannot-reach to the beginning of the lowest ear on them. They bear two large, well-developed corn ears each, and J. S. McClure of Vernon has the credit of their production.

The Arlzona delegation, in caucus, canvassed the subject of the direction toward which they would bend their energies. Two general propositions were determined upon: That they would forward resolutions to Congress urging the admission of the Territories to Statehood.

The Arlzona delegation, in caucus, canvassed the subject of the direction toward which they would bend their energies. Two general propositions were determined upon: That they would forward resolutions to Congress urging the admission of the Territories to Statehood.

The delegates for the most part are more familiar with conventions than with congress; at least most of them speak of convention tw "What you see here, however, cannot be created everywhere in the arid region by irrigation, for the profits of that system are subject to climatic conditions. In this waterless land there is a consant succession of field crops, and our fruits return hundreds of dollars per acre. In most of the arid region irrigation cannot be as profitable as here, therefore, it will not bear the cost which we can bear.

"We should reform the Federal land laws so that a man can take a desert land homestead without perjury. We should unify the State laws on the ownership of water. We should secure the title to water as to land in public law, and should leave the settler free of the burden of bond and mortgage.

"Above all, we should not look to a paternal government to irrigate our lands for us, but should encourage individual effort, first, within individual means, and next, as we have done in California, we should combine community credit.

California, we should combine community credit.

"This plan will settle vast tracts without driving the owner of the land to pay interest on bonds, and when these are devoted to the homes of independent people, we may consider grand schemes of engineering and vast investment of capital to irrigate zones not accessible to individual or community effort."

Extended applause was accorded the speaker, and when this had subsided, Chairman Murray expressed a wish that the results of this congress might be of good, not only to this region, but to the country at large.

The audience then adjourned.

The balcony and gallery are open to visitors. The opening day saw a large number of interested spectators in the balcony, and the attendance will undoubtedly increase as the work of the congress progresses.

There was but one delegate in Tuesday's session from any State east of the Mississippi, although three colleagues are expected. Williard E. Allen, representing Hilmois, is from Chicago. Irrigation has no charms for Sucker husbandmen or gardeners on their native heath, but it touches them in the pocket, and the Hilmois delegates are here to watch the progress of irrigation with a view to profection and advancement of Western interests owned in Hilmois.

The evening audience was large and appreciative, and, while they were in minority, there was yet a large number of ladies present. Gov. Murray of Utah, presided.

A fact which struck the most casual observer was the marked difference between this gathering and an ordinary political convention. The delegates had the appearance of men who had been accustomed to deal with gates had the appearance of men who had been accustomed to deal with great problems of the times. It was a common remark that no more representative gathering of intelligent men had ever been seen in Los Angeles, which has witnessed so many convent Contained a Draft for $823-The Accused Claims That It is a Case of Blackmail-A Mistake in Names.

ANOTHER'S LETTER.

A Real Estate Agent Arrested for Opening It.

Henry J. Stanley, the real estate agent on Broadway, was yesterday ar-rested on complaint of A. S. Teutschel for opening a letter addressed to the latter. The complaint states that a San Francisco draft for $823 was contained in the tampered envelope, and that said draft has not yet been returned to the complaining witness. The offense leged to have taken place on the 22d of last August.

Stanley was brought before Mr. United States Commissioner Van Dyke and placed under $1000 bonds, which he furnished. His examination will take place today.

Mr. Stanley was seen at his house last night and stated that he had never last night and stated that he had never opened the letter referred to; that at the time the letter arrived, his father, Henry G. Stanley, was in the office, and opened it, as he had done several others at previous times which had come addressed to Mr. Teutschel. The elder Stanley had acted as Teutschel's agent, and as such had taken charge of the latter's correspondence, at his request. There was a mistake in the complaint which confounded father and son, and the accused stated that he quest. There was a mistake in the complaint which confounded father and son, and the accused stated that he would probably have little trouble to prove his innocence. After that, if the complaining witness wished to push the matter further, he would, no doubt, swear to an amended complaint,

As to the merits of the case, Mr. Stanley said it was undoubtedly a plain attempt at blackmail. Mr. Stænley claims to have sold Teutschel a small restaurant on the East Side, but that the latter is now dissatisfied with his bargain, and is adopting this method to "get even." As to the draft in question, Mr. Stanley states that he himself accompanied Teutschel to the Bank of America, and, after having introduced Teutschel, the latter opened an account with the identical draft, and later checked on it. Mr. Stanley also claims to have several threatening letters from Teutschel in his possession.
